

RÉKA LEGEZA

Short Bio:

I am Réka Legeza, an English as a Second Language (ESL) instructor at Ludovika University of Public Service in Budapest, Hungary. My teaching and research activities focus on English for Specific Purposes (ESP) in a military context and the integration of artificial intelligence into foreign language teaching.

My current work, together with my colleagues Ibolya Horváthné Szalóczy and János Novák, is to develop a new intensive training program for Hungarian officer cadets, which will enable students to effectively prepare for the level required by the university.

At the conference, I will present the planned program under the title Innovating Military English Instruction: A New Intensive Training Program for Hungarian Officer Cadets.
